

MANITOBA ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN'S SHELTERS

Dedicated to providing a unified voice for those affected by all forms of gender-based violence.

Annual Report 2020-2021

MAWS carries out its work on the original lands of the Anishinaabe, Cree, Oji-Cree, Assiniboine, Dakota and Dene Peoples, and the homeland of the Métis Nation.

We respect the Treaties that were made on these territories, we acknowledge the harms and mistakes of the past, and we dedicate ourselves to move forward in partnership with Indigenous communities in a spirit of reconciliation and collaboration.

About Us

In the 1980s, women's shelters across Manitoba began to work together to provide support, training and information for improved services for clients. The organization incorporated in 1991 as the Manitoba Association of Women's Shelters (MAWS).

Membership includes all ten provincially funded women's shelters in Manitoba, as well as associate members of MAWS who work in the family and intimate partner violence sector.

- ◇ That the work of MAWS is to challenge patriarchal structures and misogyny.

◆ Principles of Decolonization

Values + Beliefs that underpin Decolonized practice — Acknowledge that:

- ◇ The experiences of those who experience violence are framed by settler colonialism and historical trauma.
- ◇ The result of settler colonialist policies is violence against Indigenous women, girls and members of the 2SLGBTQQIA community.
- ◇ That the work of shelters and MAWS is to be actively anti-racist.

Message From The Co-Chairs

It's been a year of incredible challenges and change for MAWS members. From adapting to COVID-19 restrictions, to maintaining safe programming in 24/7 residential facilities and agencies such as women's resource centres, to improving services for survivors of gender-based (GBV) and family violence (FV), MAWS members have shown tremendous resilience and growth.

At the start of the pandemic, MAWS member shelters saw a worrying decrease in crisis calls and intake numbers, as survivors were forced to stay at home and/or with their abuser, without access to pre-pandemic support and networks. Clients who did reach out to shelters reported that measures like isolation, while encouraged by public health officials, had exacerbated the triggers, risks and severity of violence that they had been experiencing.

Aware that family violence was a growing "shadow pandemic" (UN Women), Manitoba FV shelters worked closely together to ensure that they remained open to survivors and victims seeking support by adapting to a changing pandemic environment. The availability of in-person and face-to-face resources were limited or removed completely by COVID-19 restrictions. By introducing different formats of service delivery, including digital services like virtual counselling, MAWS members were fortunately able to continue to provide much-needed services.

FV shelter staff across the province were committed to providing uninterrupted support to clients and persevered through pandemic restrictions, reduced staff numbers, and increased staffing challenges, to keep clients and staff safe by rigorously implementing COVID safety protocols. These protocols, which included mandatory masking and frequent cleaning and sanitizing of shelter spaces, added extra hours and stress to jobs that were already demanding. We would like to thank all FV shelter staff for their dedicated service to clients and families seeking refuge from violence during these difficult times.

“The staff helped me out Big Time. Tell them I said Thank you.”

“Great staff”

“My baby is two. He feels safe in this place, he is working hard at play 😊”

~ Shelter Users and Abuse Survivors

We would also like to thank community members across the province, who stepped up to donate urgently needed items to their local shelters, agencies and women's resource centres. When member shelters' fundraising initiatives faced cancellations due to COVID-19, grants from the Government of Canada Women and Gender Equality (WAGE) were administered to qualifying MAWS members by Women's Shelters Canada (WSC). We are extremely grateful for this community support and the grants we received, without which it would have been challenging to continue providing safe spaces and programming to clients.

The pandemic has demonstrated that there is an increased need for collaborative capacity building, hiring, staff training, and service delivery that centres culturally inclusive, trauma-informed, survivor- and human-rights based perspectives.

In the year ahead, as we reflect on the organization's structure and priorities, we will strengthen connections, not just within the FV support sector, but also with stakeholders from aligned sectors, including those that provide support to individuals experiencing homelessness, medical and mental illnesses, and substance use dependence. We will continue to work hard towards capacity building with federal, provincial and community stakeholders, on increased public awareness of GBV, and comparable services for all those fleeing violence.

Provincial Coordinator's Report

MAWS has always aimed to provide support and leadership to member shelters and agencies, while also centering the needs of Manitoban survivors and victims of gender-based (GBV) and family violence (FV). Although our work was challenged by the pandemic, with the help of dedicated staff already aligned with operating remotely, we were able to coordinate resources and information throughout the GBV support sector during these unprecedented times.

The pandemic caused additional strain on an already encumbered family violence system across Manitoba, but leaders of the FV shelters and agencies did what they do best. They pulled together and managed crises, one after another on a daily basis. I'd like to commend all the leaders and staff across the sector who quickly adapted, learned and dealt not only with their personal life challenges, but also with the challenges of their clientele.

MAWS introduced a daily vacancy report at the beginning of the pandemic to help service providers quickly identify available bed spaces and which agencies were operating. Since everyone was struggling to adapt to a changing, restricted work environment, MAWS facilitated virtual meetings with FV organizations across the province to identify promising practices on how to deal with the realities of the pandemic in 24/7 residential facilities. These meetings provided an opportunity to learn from leaders throughout the sector and build working relationships. The meetings will re-start later this fall as a virtual Community of Practice (CoP).

MAWS is participating in other CoPs and research projects, including a CoP with the University of Manitoba (UM) Research and Education for Solutions to Violence and Abuse (RESOLVE) network. This initiative aims to improve coordination amongst family violence/family law practitioners, to share information on emerging issues and promising practices, and provide better support for those navigating these systems. MAWS is also a committee member for the UM RESOLVE research project "COVID-19 and the Experiences of Intimate Partner Violence Survivors and Service Providers". Nationally, MAWS is an advisor in the research project "Recognizing Critical Expertise in Gender-Based Violence Work" conducted by the Centre for Research and Education on Violence Against Women and Children. This project will identify a national set of core competencies to help GBV organizations as they continue to design and implement sustainable and relevant training.

In addition to these projects, MAWS has worked with Rogers Communications on the Manitoba phase of their Digital Lifeline program, to connect more Manitoba survivors and victims with phones and digital lifelines that could enable them to seek support and refuge from violence. We are also collaborating with organizations that work with newcomers, immigrants and refugee families on a campaign called "You Are Not Alone," that raises awareness of Manitoban GBV prevention and support programs through multilingual videos.

This year, MAWS has learned a lot, both from those working in and those navigating the GBV system. One of these insights is the need for advanced FV staff training to support individuals affected by violence as well as mental illness and/or substance use dependence. Through the efforts of Manitoba Status of Women, we have received a grant from Manitoba Department of Families to develop an advanced, virtual course that will be available for free to FVPP funded agencies' staff. Plus, FVPP is exploring the development of a micro-credential course with Red River College to prepare individuals interested in working in the FV shelter system.

Through this project and other initiatives, MAWS will continue to collaborate with FV shelters and agencies in Manitoba, as well as community stakeholders. We are committed to supporting FV service providers in their work, and ultimately, survivors and victims of gender-based and family violence in their journey towards well-being and healing.

Transforming Together: 2020/2021

MAWS' "Transforming Together – A Project to Re-envision Family Violence" is building the capacity of MAWS and the shelter system in Manitoba to enhance their response to the needs of those experiencing intimate partner and family violence. It is funded by Women and Gender Equality Canada, a department succeeding Status of Women Canada.

This past year saw the retirement of Lesley Lindberg as the Project Manager. Lesley's energy and vision laid a strong foundation for the project to continue to transform the status quo. We miss her greatly and wish her all the best. Colleen Sym took over the Project Manager role and was joined by Amber Merucci as the Project Specialist. Amber's experience and expertise have already had a positive impact on the project activities.

The upheaval caused by the COVID-19 pandemic has continued to impact the project. As we entered the second year of the pandemic a course correction to the approach to system planning was needed. This has meant centering the project activities on addressing challenges and changes needed to improve the client experience identified by the ten family violence shelters who are members of MAWS. Individual interviews with the shelter executive directors took place over May and June.

We explored with them challenges they were facing, and where possible, the supports that the Transforming Together project could provide were identified and a plan to move forward with change was made. What we learned are that some of the challenges are unique to a shelter, given its location and community issues, but most are systemic issues that are experienced across the province. As we move forward with the individual plans, the learnings will be shared, solutions to problems identified and scaled across the shelter system to bring about systemic change.

Some areas of focus for the Transforming Together Project:

- ⇒ Launching a stakeholders survey in August, to identify barriers and challenges to accessing shelter services and opportunities for collaboration to address them.
- ⇒ Recruiting participants for a Survivor Advisory Group. The aim of this group is to meet women who have the capacity to participate, are settled, and are interested in constructive dialogue around how those experiencing gender based violence navigate the shelter system. Contact: amber@maws.mb.ca
- ⇒ Collaborating with Homelessness Winnipeg and HelpSeeker for systems mapping, which has resulted in the mapping of 5200 programs in Manitoba. MAWS now has the ability to break down the provincial listings into the geographic areas for a shelter and to further sort the programs based on their service focus such as Indigenous services, homelessness services, newcomer services, substance use services, mental health services and domestic violence and abuse services.
- ⇒ Developing and distributing an electronic governance manual to MAWS members for their Board of Directors, to support the strong governance objective of the project.
- ⇒ Developing a MAWS Learning Portal, which will offer virtual training support with both self-directed and facilitated discussion options for the governance training. www.maws.mb.ca
- ⇒ Offering support to shelter boards in the review and analysis of the impact of the new Family Violence Prevention Program provincial shelter standards, once they are released.
- ⇒ Forming a new virtual shelter counsellors study group to build capacity to improve services for individuals affected by intimate partner and family violence.
- ⇒ Providing Advocacy: MAWS has been active on a Clare's Law Working Group, the Family Law Modernization Collaboration Table, consultations on revising the shelter standards and developing training for the sector. At the national level, MAWS led the Manitoba consultation on the National Action Plan on Gender Based Violence and consulted on amendments to the Criminal Code to enhance safety for survivors.

MAWS is continuing its exploration on how to ensure its financial sustainability, grow its membership and update its governance structure. We are canvassing the other provincial associations for ideas and have reached out to MAWS associate members for their insights. Developing a new model is a priority for the coming year.

1109 children and caregivers attended 446 playgroups.

Counselling / Support Groups

169 Counselling sessions were provided to 77 children and 112 support groups were conducted with a total of 250 children attending.

Parenting Programs

569 counselling sessions were provided to 160 parents and 77 parental support groups were provided to 213 caregivers.
